

DeskDemon Announces the Winners of “Our Favorites - The Award,” A Prestigious Award Honoring the Best of the Best in Office Products, Services and Vendors

In recognition of quality products and services used by corporate America every day, DeskDemon launched “Our Favorites – The Award” the first award program honoring the best of the best in office products and services voted on by those who know best, the administrative professional.

Redwood City, California (PRWEB) September 18, 2014 -- Every year corporate America spends billions of dollars on office products and services that are necessary to run and maintain offices. To most employees the office supplies and services are seamlessly stocked in the supply cabinet, or there is little to no thought to how that package they drop in an outgoing box always makes it to its destination on time. It is the administrative professional that sources and purchases the products and services that keep the office running smooth. Administrative professionals are the backbone of the office and know what the best products and services are. There is no one better to recognize and honor the companies that provide quality products and services.

With this valuable insight and knowledge, we asked DeskDemon's viewers to sound off on what are the best of the best products and services, what "their favorite" products truly are. The administrative professional of the nation have spoken, and the winners are:
